TRAIN HOLDUP LOOT FOUND

El Cerrito Bandit Suspect Dies Of Gunshot Wound

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Believe it or not, folks, there are only nine more shopping days until Christmas. Laugh that off.

* * * *

Some of these days, when we are all worn out and no use at all to anybody, we are going to be weather men, no less.

* * * *

The other day our pet mistake maker declared it was going to rain. Yes, sir, there was no question about it.

* * * *

The next day it was nice, sunshiny and warm. That night the weather man declared it would rain the next day.

* * * *

And the next day was like the day before. The sun shone brightly, the birds sang and the flowers flowered.

* * * *

The weather man, (like all weather men do) woke up that morning, stuck his head out the door, and cursed in three different languages.

* * * *

His good wife and his four children said nothing to him that morning. They sympathized with him. They too, realized the terrible disgrace that the head of the house felt.

* * * *

He drank four cups of black coffee, bought himself the blackest cigar he could find, and slunk to his office, his overcoat pulled well up around his neck.

* * * *

For a long time he debated a course of action. What to do? What to do?

* * * *

That night he again issued his forecast: "Rain tomorrow and tomorrow night. Gentle southerly winds."

* * * *

He hurried home that night to [illegible] "s[illegible]cast it would rain tomorrow," he told them. Eagerly they hung upon every word. It must rain tomorrow, or otherwise—well, they hated to think what it would mean.

* * * *

And the next day was just as bright and sunny as the day before.

* * * *

Circles appeared beneath the eyes of our weather man that morning, his face was haggard. He refused to eat breakfast and again went to his office by another route, studiously avoiding any chance of meeting acquaintances.

* * * *

Another long debate ensued when he reached his office. He gnashed his teeth; smoked two packs of cigarettes; chawed his finger nails, and swore. Something must be done.

* * * *

Then he arose, threw back his shoulders, stuck out his chest, and struck a pose. "Now or never!" he shouted. "Steve Brodie, Columbus and Hobson took a chance. I shall too!" And with that he sat down at his desk and feverishly wrote: "Rain tomorrow and tomorrow night! Gentle southerly winds."

* * * *

Feverishly he awaited the coming of dawn. He was afraid to sleep. He was nervous and irritable. And then, came the dawn—and with it, rain—ah, glorious rain.

* * * *

That night the weather man rested upon his laurels. There were feasting and rejoicing in his household. God was in the heaven; all was well with the world—it rained.

MARTINEZ, Dec. 13.— Statements allegedly written on the wall of a Shell Oil company building were the basis for a libel suit brought by William Ready against Anthony Gates, 35 who was freed of the charge today when it was declared the alleged sentences were erased.

SUSPECT IS HELD IN NORTH

SEATTLE, Dec. 13.—UP— Five thousand dollars in currency, said to have been part of the loot taken in the holdup of a Southern Pacific train near Nobel Calif., a month ago was seized by U. S. post office inspectors late today when they raided a box in the vault of the Day and Night Safety Deposit and Storage company.

The currency consisted of bundles of new federal reserve notes of $20 denominations and was definitely said to be part of the money taken from the train.

Diamonds, rings and assorted jewelry made up the rest of the valuables which were confiscated.

Inspectors said they found a key to the deposit box among the assets of an unnamed suspect.

The same suspect was believed to have participated in the $45,000 robbery of the Citizens' Security National Bank in Everett, Wash., last fall.

The box had been rented to a woman whose name the inspectors refused to disclose.

A short time before the loot was found detectives announced that they had arrested a man suspected of being implicated in the $60,000 train robbery but refused to disclose his name.

Cry-Baby Gang Dies In Chair

OSSINING, N. Y., Dec. 13.—UP—Three youths who gained the name of "Cry Baby Bandits" in their trails for killing a Long Island druggist were executed here last night.

James Bolger, 19, James Butler, 20 and Italia Ferdinandi 22, were the three who paid with their lives in the electric chair. They gained their names of "Cry Baby Bandits" because they continually cried during their trials.

Butler died first. He had nothing to say. Fernandi asked God's forgiveness and his blessing on his mother, father and sweetheart, while Bolger declared he would die like he lived, "with a smile on his face."

Governor Roosevelt declared he would not pardon the youths because their guilt had been established and to do so would sanction the commission of other crimes. Charles Bauer was the man's life for which the three paid. He was killed Feb. 4, when he attempted to bar their escape after the robbery.

Huge Christmas Tree Decorated

One of the most brilliantly lighted and best decorated outdoor Christmas trees in the city is the one erected by the merchants and decorated with the aid of Boy Scouts at the corner of Twenty-third street and Macdonald avenue.

The tree, more than 22 feet in height is lighted with 225 globes. White spray gives the tree a snow covered appearance.

This was the expression voiced by hundreds of people as they passed the corner last night and gazed at the spectacle. Boy Scouts under the direction of E. J. Barnhardt spent the greater part of yesterday decorating the large tree.

Merchants east of the Southern Pacific viaduct co-operated to erect the tree after the Merchants association found it was impossible to secure enough living trees growing in boxes to place along the entire business section of the city.

Many words of praise were being given today for the efforts of the merchants east of the subway in giving the eastern section of the city an apeparance of Christmas.

The Boy Scouts who decked the tree are from Troop No. 5, sponsored by the Odd Fellows.

Many other trees throughout the city were also lighted last night for the first time following the decoration by residents.

SENSATIONAL NEW DEVELOPMENTS IN PROBE OF BIG L. A. CRASH SEEN

INQUEST TO BE HELD SOON

Wounded by an El Cerrito police officer during a holdup on the night of Nov. 18, Clarence Hyland, 28, of Oakland, died at the county hospital yesterday afternoon.

Hyland's spine was shattered by a bullet from the gun of Patrolman H. A. Thulen of the El Cerrito police department.

If the bandit suspect had recovered, doctors say, he would have been unable to walk a step, as the shot severed his spinal cord.

Leaves Widow

The body has been brought to the Wilson and Kratzer morgue where funeral services and an inquest are pending.

Deceased leaves a wife and a child.

The shooting followed an attempted holdup of Louis Heldoorn, Schmidt Lane and San Pablo avenue, El Cerrito, at his wrecking yards at an early hour on the night of Nov. 18.

Heldoorn told police that he returned home at an early hour got out of his automobile and started to open a gate to his back yard.

Holdup Attempt

At this point someone shouted, "stick 'em up!"

Thinking that it was a joke, Heldoorn replied, "Go to ——!"

Martinez Hits S. P. Schedule

MARTINEZ, Dec. 13.—More than 300 residents of this city have signed a petition protesting the Southern Pacific's plan to take this city off the stop schedule of three trains.

A new schedule to become effective Dec. 28, would take train No. 24 en route to San Francisco and stopping at 9:55 a. m., train No. 24 enroute to Sacramento and stopping here at 9:30 a. m. and train No. 48 en route to Sacramento and stopping here at 6:30 off the schedule.

An investigation by the Chamber of Commerce has shown more passengers are leaving Martinez over Southern Pacific lines since the bridge has been opened, which they declare is due to the more frequent train service.

It is claimed that the one train bound for San Francisco is the only one between early morning and noon that persons can ride. This will be a handicap to the city if it is taken from the schedule, it is claimed.

The government troops, concentrating artillery and airplanes around the walled city of Jaca, barred the march of the revolutionaries toward Huesca, and Barcelona. A withering artillery fire tore the ranks of the insurgents to pieces. It was estimated unofficially that about 100 casualties—killed or wounded—were inflicted on the rebels. MAYOR HAT IS STOLEN

It appeared to be a bold daylight robbery when Mayor A. B. Hinkley lost his silk hat to a pair of masked bandits yesterday as he rode in the parade which officially welcomed Santa Claus to town.

Just as the paraders led by a car in which Mayor A. B. Hinkley arrived at the intersection of Macdonald and Twelfth, a car parked in the street blocked the progress of the city official.

Suddenly one of the men from the parked car rushed to the official's automobile and grabbed the hat when it appeared out of the car windows to ascertain what was delaying the parade.

Shouts of "My hat, my hat," did not reach the police in the parade until the highwaymen had gotten a good start. Persuit failed to overtake the bad men.

Despite the loss of the hat it was reported safe last night and was expected to be returned to Mayor Hinkley in time to allow him to make another public appearance in the same skypiece next Saturday when the show is given at the California theater for children of the city.

No report of the robbery was on file with the Richmond police, and no search was being made for the missing haberdashery.

The parade which brought forth scores of children and their parents and escorts proved to be one of the most enlivening public affairs of the year. Trinkets and toys were tossed to the children as the auto bearing Santa proceeded down Macdonald avenue.

Chief of Police Dan Cox and Fire Chief W. P. Cooper had their representatives in the procession. Many merchants and residents of the city added to the number of cars in the parade.

BALL TEAMS TO MEET IN BIG GAME TODAY

For the benefit of the Sunshine camp and also for a possible victory, the Richmond Y. M. I. and the Richmond Modern Woodmen of America will battle on the First street diamond this afternoon in a charity contest.

Today's clash is expected to be one of the most interesting and hardest fought games of the local 1930 baseball season. Both teams are close rivals and close contestants for the inter-county winter league title, and they should make the First street lot hum with excitement this afternoon. The game will be a regular inter-county league contest.

Johnny Babich, young high school chucker, will do the twirling for the Y. M. I. outfit today. Babich will go to the Seal camp in the spring to attempt to break into the Pacific Coast league, and his progress on the mound is being closely watched by many local diamond enthusiasts. Babich ought to cause plenty of puzzling on the part of the Woodmen sluggers today.

However, the Woodmen will also possess the advantage of having a good pitcher in this afternoon's tussle. Martin is scheduled to go into the box for the Woodmen, and Martin's chucking reputation points to plenty of strong hur'ing on his part against Y. M. I. today.

Both aggregations contain a majority of heavy handlers of the willow, and they may be reckoned upon to do some strong hitting in spite of good pitching by Babich and Martin.

Today's game will get under way this afternoon at 2 o'clock, and the largest crowd ever to witness a baseball game here this year is expected to pack the First street stands at that time.

The team of the Richmond Woodmen will today include: C Matteri, 3b; Gillan, ss; Wickesser 2b; Gray, 1b; Peacock, cf; Pinto, lf; Gregory, rf; Moitoza, c, and Martin, p.

The Y. M. I. nine will consist of: Lucas, ss; Johnson, lf; Losce, rf; Korte, 1b; Babich, p; Prolo, 2b; O'Rourke, cf and Snyder or Matteri 2b.

Holdup Solved With Arrest Of 'Bandit'

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 13.—UP—Career of a notorious robber and gangster whose admitted loot during the past several years totaled $100,000, ended early today with the arrest and confession of Louis Deathridge, 26, of Richfield, Ill.

Deathridge, Louis Hoover, 26, Richfield, and Howard Myers, 28, Denver, were rounded up as they were allegedly trying to loot the service station police said. Deathridge was found to be in a serious condition from three bullet wounds in the back sustained, he said, in a gun battle in which Patrolman L. R. Terry was wounded November 28. The man said he engineered thirteen holdups in Salt Lake City and boasted of being a member of the Hogan gang in St. Louis, Mo.

Once he decided to talk, the gangster was eager to tell of his exploits, police said. He told of how he "shot it out with St. Louis gamblers during a dispute."

All of the money he had stolen, he said, was lost gambling.

Police said the man terminated a four year term in the Missouri penitentiary at Jefferson City in October. Immediately after his release he participated in a bank robbery at Grafton, Ill., which netted $4000 and another at Madison, Wis., which brought $2000. Arrested for the latter, he jumped a $2000 bail and went to Denver, he told police.

After participating in several holdups in Denver, the bandit came to Salt Lake. Deathridge said he left his bed to aid his two accomplices because they were "making such a mess of their jobs."

He confessed only after obtaining a promise from detectives that his child, suffering from pneumonia, would be given medical attention. Myers and Hoover refused to make statements. All three were identified by a number of robber victims.

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Because its done in other cities will be no excuse for wearing pajamas on Memphis streets according to Police Chief Will Lee who has announced all pajama-clad persons will be arrested and charged with some sort of misdemeanor.

$175,000 N. Y. CHARITY GRID GATE SEEN

NEW YORK, Dec. 13. —UP—With a capacity crowd expected at the Polo Grounds tomorrow afternoon for the Notre Dame All-Stars Professional New York Giants football battle, the cast awaits with interest the final item on its current gridiron menu.

The game, which is expected to net $175,000 for the mayor's fund for the relief of the unemployed, is unique in that it defies all advance dope and statistics. It cannot be fought out in newsprint on the strength of the past performances of the opposing elevens.

3 Generals

A colorful multi- angled conflict is in the making. It will see three of football's greatest field generals in action in Benny Friedman, Frank Carideo and Harry Stuhldreher. It will see the goal of the 1929 Army-Notre Dame battle, Chris Cagle, now of the giants, seek to revenge himself on the man who made him the goat of that game, Speedy Jack Elder, whose interception of Cagle's pass led to that year's Irish victory.

It will see the forward wall of the undefeated 1929 Ramblers go charging against one of the best rush lines in pro football. Those features, in themselves, are enough to tempt any red-blooded grid fan.

In addition there is a larger point at issue—the relative supremacy of pro and college football. Rockne looks to the All-Stars to vindicate the supremacy of college football. He was personally superintended the final polishing up of their offensive and his master mind will be on the side lines shrewdly following every play.

Rockne Win Seen

It is known that it is Rockn's sentiments that it is entirely too late in the season to have defeat coupled in the public mind with the Notre Dame name—even in a charity game played by former stars.

And there it is. On one hand, the power, highly geared professional team, with Friedman, Cagle, Flannigan, Snedbrooke, Hapmorgan and Tiny Feather. On the other hand is the greatest array of amateur football talent ever collected on one squad—and the genius of the magician of South Bend, fresh from the wizardry of the U. S. C. triumph.

Successor For Overman Named

RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 13.—UP—Governor O. Max Gardner tonight appointed former Gov. Cameron M. Morrison of Charlotte to the U. S. senate to succeed the late veteran Lee Slater Overman, who died Friday at Washington and was buried today at Salisbury.

Appointment of Morrison elevated to the upper house of congress a man high in the regular Democratic circles of North Carolina and a man who long before the passing of Senator Overman had announced his candidacy for Overman's seat in the race of 1932.

ARMY 55 YARD RUN BEATS NAVY

YANKEE STADIUM, Dec. 13.—UP—A 55 yard dash for a touchdown by right halfback Ray Stecker early in the fourth quarter gave the Army a 6 to 0 victory over the Navy in their great charity football game this afternoon.

Stecker's run came with dramatic suddenness and was totally unexpected by the 75,000 persons gathered to watch the two teams in their first game since 1927, when a controversy over the eligibility of players brought a parting of the ways.

55 Yard Run

Five minutes of the final period had passed and the two elevens were battling to a standstill when Stecker, a slender six footer, weighing 168 pounds, made his nonstop flight to Navy's goal line. With the ball on Army's 45-yard line, Stecker took the pass from center, faked to the right, and then cut back through the middle of the line.

His fake to the right had drawn the Middies to that side and when he shot through the center he was in the clear.

But two Navy men remained between Stecker and the goal line. It was a case of which could pick them up and lay them down the fastest. Stecker could. Breezing down the middle of the field like the midnight express, he reached the goal line without a hand being laid upon him.

Kick Fails

Charles Droshous was called in as a substitute to kick the goal after touchdown, but his effort failed. Had he had his eyes shut when he crossed the line Stecker would not have known he had scored, for the 1400 cadets and all other spectators who like the gray over the blue, went wild.

Had the play that sent Stecker zooming into the wide open spaces failed, the 31st renewal of the Army-Navy clash would have undoubtedly ended in a scoreless tie.

Navy showed early in the first quarter that it had come down from the banks of the Severn to do or die. Within four minutes after the game was under way, the Midshipmen had repulsed an Army attack that carried the ball to the Navy 20 yard line. No more was this threat thrown back then Army was again hammering deep into Navy territory. Again the Midshipmen answered the challenge and pulled out of the hole.

Near Tie

Beginning with the second quarter—a quarter, by the way, that saw neither team make a first down—Navy began fighting the cadets on even terms. The third quarter passed with neither team threatening and the fourth period, up until Stecker's run, looked like another session of fruitless sparring in midfield.

Navy's line, though it held the Army backs well in hand, on most occasions, was unable to break through the soldiers' line with any success. The middy backs, when they gained, gained as a result of their own drive and not because of the work of their linemen.

Carlmark, Price, Humber, Suares and the other members of Army's first line of defense were too powerful for the sailors to handle.

The first down figures reveal how completely the Army line smothered the tricky Navy offense. The sailors, despite their fight and will to win, were able to make but four first downs, all of which came in the second half. Kirn and Gannon were the most effective backs.

Navy Kicks Off

Before hundreds of the spectators were seated, Army was plowing toward the Navy goal. Captain Bowstrom of the Navy won the toss, and elected to kick. Army, after two stabs at the line, kicked. Navy returned the compliment, and Army, aided by a 15-yard penalty, started a drive from its own 45-yard line.

Stecker and Frentzel made it first down on Navy's 43 yard line. Stecker slipped through center and right guard for another first down on the 20-yard stripe. With it third down and some seven yards to go, Stecker tossed a pass that sailed over the goal line, missing Carlmark's outstretched fingers by inches.

Navy took the ball on downs on the 20-yard line on the first play.

The boys missed their signals, and the pass from center sailed to the one-yard line before Bynge recovered. Unperturbed by the bad break Capt. Bowstrom stood behind his own goal line and kicked out to his own 35-yard line, where Bowman was nailed in his tracks. Here the Army started all over again.

After hitting the middle to lighten the Navy defense, Stecker flipped a pass to Bowman, who raced to the 13-yard line before being nailed from behind by [illegible]. Navy called time out. The rest did the sailors good, for they came back into action to turn back the soldiers for the second time within ten minutes.

Kicking Duel

From this point until the end of the half, the teams engaged in a kicking duel, a duel in which Captain Bowstrom's long punts enabled Navy to regain the ground lost during the opening minutes of the game.

Those sports readers who must have their heroes after each contest may go ahead and sing praises of Army's Stecker and Navy's Hagberg, without fear of interruption.

Stecker, in addition to scoring the winning touchdown, threw practically all of Army's passes, did a nice job of backing up the line, and was an efficient blocker when he was not carrying the ball.

Hagberg was the best defensive man on the field. This burly two-hundred pounder up until this afternoon considered a very slow man indeed, was all over the field. He made one fourth of all the Navy tackles.

The game, though bitterly fought was totally free of any unsportsmanlike conduct. The correspondent's eyes, aided by a powerful pair of binoculars, failed to detect one single undercover deed.

The boys fought hard, but fought clean. In short, they played just the sort of game Army and Navy would be expected to play.

CAGE LOOP TO CLOSE FIRST ROUND

The final games of the first round of the Richmond City Basketball league will be played tomorrow night in the Roosevelt gymnasium.

The Santa Fe cagers will go into action against the Studebakers in the A division contest at 8:30, while the Civic Center Tires will tangle with the Mastercraft Roofers of the B division at 7:30.

Tommorw night's A division game promises to be a frantic affair. Santa Fe is now leading by one game, and it is anxious to make its lead safer by adding one more victory to its own credit. However, the Studebakers, although getting off to a poor start, have went into a winning streak, and are dangerous opponents for the Santa Fe athletes.

The B division game also promises to offer plenty of strong competition tomorrow evening. The Civic Center Tires and Mastercraft Roofers are battling hard to narrow the difference between their wins and the number of victories garnered by the division leading Garfinkle Clothiers.

Tomorrow night's games will be the last city league contests until Jan. 5, when the second round will start. McRacken's Clothiers will meet Santa Fe and Ben Malik's athletes will mix with the Civic Center Tires at that time.

Soccer Team Will Meet With Berkeley Club

Richmond's soccer athletes will give battle to the Berkeley Sports club this afternoon at San Pablo park. The locals have been going fairly well thus far this season and they should be able to hold their own easily against the Berkeley boys.

The Richmond team will this afternoon include: Weaving, goal; Blair and O'Neil, fullbacks; Baker, Blair and Long, halfbacks; Sherratt, Brain, Pryde, Grice and Moscrop, forwards; reserves Brock and Thompson.

Odd Fellows Nine To Meet Rola Outfit

The Rola club will be today's opponents for the Richmond Odd Fellows' nine in an inter-county winter league clash on the San Pablo diamond. The athletes will go into action at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Murphy will start in the box for the lodgemen today, while Bill Gualdoni will be behind the home platter for the linkers.

NET TEAM AT HIGH WILL BE GOOD

Prospects of one of the greatest tennis teams ever produced by Richmond Union High school are looming on the local high school athletic horizon for 1931. Already defending champions of the Alameda County Athletic league, the Richmond Union High school boys are looking forward to another march toward the tennis title of the league.

It is believed that one of the largest tennis teams in the history of the local high school will turn out for action next semester. A squad of more than 20 athletes will probably report for duty under the colors of the Navy Blue and Red.

There will be a strong squad of veterans left this year to form a dependable nucleus for the Richmond Union High school team. Jimmie Hurley, present North Coast high school tennis champion, will again be wielding his fast racquet for Richmond. Phil Carlin and Darrow Sutton, both leading contenders for state tennis honors, will report for action. Adrian Newman, who played well for Richmond Union High school last season, will be a dependable member of this year's team. Clarence Garibotti, up-and-coming young net star will come from Longfellow Junior High school, where he captained the Longfellow tennis aggregation and he is expected to be a valuable addition to the high school outfit. Steve LeGault is also reckoned upon to do good work for Richmond High school during 1931. Besides these well-known players many more athletes of local courts are expected to lend strength to this year's team.

The Richmond Union High school tennis team will this year be defending champions of the Alameda County Athletic league. According to present aspects of the league, it appears as if Berkeley will be Richmond's strongest opponents in this year's competition.

Milton Belway will be manager of the Richmond Union High school tennis team for the coming semester.

Junior College Grid Title Play Ends In 6-6 Tie

COMPTON, Cal., Dec. 13.—UP—A bitter struggle for the state junior college football championship ended in a 6-6 tie between strong teams from the Compton junior college and Menlo Park junior college.

The northern team was scheduled to defeat Compton but the local aggregation rose to unexpected heights and only missed victory as the result of a decision which had supporters swarming over the field in a menacing manner during the last two minutes to play.

With three minutes to go Compton took the ball on Menlo Park's 48 yard line and went to the 15 yard mark on a brilliant run by Slagle. A substitute back, Valenzuela, was sent in. He flipped a pass over the goal which was intercepted by Lacombe of Menlo.

Lacombe, according to Compton's viewpoint, started to run and fumbled the ball which was grabbed in the air behind the line by Kimball of Compton, who thought he had a touchdown.

Referee Reinhart and Umpire Badenoch went into a huddle and announced that the pass had been incomplete behind the goal, giving Menlo the ball on its 20 yard line. Some members of the crowd started after the officials, but nothing serious developed and the game went on.

Compton scored in the second quarter when Sleagle ran end for seven yards after a long march down the field.

Huge Income Tax Return To Be Given U. S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—UP—Tax payers of the nation will swell the coffers of the federal treasury Monday with an estimated $480,000,000 in income tax payments due then as the last installment on their incomes for the peak year of 1929.

With receipt of this amount, the treasury will have collected in income taxes this year a total of $2,105,000,000. This is a slight increase as compared with collections last year, despite the one percent tax cut which was allowed on taxes paid in 1930.

The treasury now faces the prospect of collecting taxes on the smaller incomes of the current year. First installments on 1930 incomes are due next March 15, and for the first time will reveal the full effect of the stock market crash on federal revenues.

Low Interest

Monday the treasury will handle an aggregate of $1,700,000,000 The government will issue $428,000,000 in new short term securities at record low interest rates

The government will receive Monday $1,031,000,000 from taxpayers, investors and foreign governments. It will pay $672,000,000 to investors.

In estimating the deficit of $180,000,000 for this fiscal year ending July 1, 1931, the treasury made allowance for all receipts and expenditures in the government's regular financial program so Monday's operations will make no change in this situation.

Receive Money

Payment of interest on the United States $16,000,000,000 public debt will total $90,000,000 Monday and the treasury will receive $123,000,000 from foreign governments on account of their war debts. Ninety two million of this sum will be paid in cash on account of interest and will go into the general fund of the treasury.

Indications that investors are expecting an upturn in the stock and bond markets was seen in the fact that while the treasury's new six months securities were over subscribed six times, the 12 month issue was oversubscribed only twice.

This was he'd to show that investors are disinclined to place funds in long term investments as they are hopeful of an upturn in business which wi'l offer more profitable opportunities in a few months.

Grain Prices To Be Stabalized

PENDELTON, Ore., Dec. 13.—UP—Henry W. Collins, district manager of the National Grain corporation, announced today that the price of wheat in the northwest would be stabilized at 68 cents on May options at coast points.

Collins also said that C. W. Hunter, formerly of the firm of Hales and Hunter in Chicago, will open offices for the corporation in Los Angeles and San Francisco. California is in Collins' territory.

Christian Science Lesson Subject

"God, the Preserver of Man," wi'l be the subject of the lesson-sermon today in all churches of Christ,Scientist, branches of the mother church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The citations which comprise the lesson-sermon will include the following from the Bible: "For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God. For ye have not received the spirit of bondage again to fear; but ye have received the Spirit of adoption, whereby we cry, Abba, Father." (Rom. 8:14, 15).

The lesson-sermon also will include the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The enslavement of man is not legitimate. It will cease when man enters into his heritage of freedom, his God-given dominion over the material senses. Mortals will some day assert their freedom in the name of Almighty God. Then they will control their own bodies through the understanding of divine Science." (p. 228).

FAMOUS GIRLS IN FILM AT FOX

As is usually the case with stage parents, both Richard Bennett and Adrienne Morrison, father and mother of the three famous Bennett sisters, Constance Barbara and Joan, admonished their three daughters to stay away from the theater as a lifetime career.

As is usually the case with children of stage people, all three of them made a bee line for the theater at the very first opportunity. Joan, being the youngest, was the last to follow the lead of her two older sisters, but her record of eight featured roles during the past eighteen months testifies to her rapid rise to the heights.

As Xandra, in the leading feminine role opposite Edmund Lowe in "Scotland Yard" dramatic all talking thriller coming to the Fox-California Theater tomorrow, Joan easily scores the triumph of her brief but colorful career.

"Scotland Yard" is the FoxMovietone version of Denison Clift's famous stage play of the same name adapted to the audible screen by Garrett Fort and directed by William K. Howard.

The story is a thrilling drama of a wife, whose husband disappeared in the war, confronted with an imposter who had been given the exact likeness of her husband by a plastic surgeon's mistake. So perfect is the imitation, she is fooled to the extent of giving her love to the strange man, and only the timely work of detectives from Scotland Yard prevents a further tragedy when the criminal posing as her husband is exposed in a plot involving a bank robbery of a million pounds.

Edmund Lowe plays his first dual role since the advent of sound in "Scotland Yard."

Four Held In Pool Hall Theft

MARTINEZ, Dec. 13.—Four boys ranging in age from 14 to 21 were in custody here following their confessions that they had robbed the Rodeo garage Wednesday of $4 and accessories.

John Bromstad, 21 of Rodeo was taken into custody as he boarded a milk truck for Oakland. He confessed to the crime after three of his accomplices arrested by Constable Eugene Shea and Deputy Sheriff J. M. Josephs are said to have admitted entering the garage.

The four denied that they had broken into the Marcus pool hall at Pinole Wednesday night when $4 and a quantity of cigarets were stolen.

KIN AIDS ARMY DOCTOR IN TRIAL

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 13.—UP—Mrs. Senana H. Curtis, an 86-year old grandmother, took the witness stand in federal court here today to testify for Major Charles A. Shepard, an eminent army surgeon who is charged with murdering his wife.

The aged woman, answering in a clear, eager voice the questions of Defense Attorney C. L. Kagey, delivered powerful blows against the government case which was rested shortly before noon.

Major Shepard was accused of poisoning Mrs. Senana McCoskey Shepard, grand daughter of Mrs. Curtis, with bichloride of mercury. He wished to marry Miss Grace Brandon, a San Antonio stenographer with bright blonde hair, the government contended. Friends of Mrs. Shepard testified they had never seen her drink. The major said she did, that she was an alcoholic and suffered from melancholia.

Gave Testimony

Mrs. Curtis testified her granddaughter drank "secretely" even before she met the officer.

"And she didn't want to drink," Mrs. Curtis said. "She inherited a desire for liquor from her father, whose death was caused by it.

"On occasions Mrs. Shepard's conduct became what I would call riotous. Her mother was fully aware of her habits. She became insane partly from worry because of that knowledge."

Officer Listens

The spectators leaned forward to hear. A hush was over the room. The scene was charged with drama.

Not far from the neatly dressed witness sat the major, staring at the floor. His face twitched. Mrs. Theodore McCoskey, sister-in-law of the deceased woman and a government witness was weeping.

Miss Brandon, who is only 24 and is 35 years the major's junior, sat nearby. She was dressed in a black, flat crepe dress with close fitting black hat. For two days she had been on the witness stand for the government, testifying against her former sweetheart.

Was Injured

The aged witness was dressed conservatively in a dark dress. Strands of gray hair peeked from her hat brim. She limped slightly. A motor car sturck her near her home in Los Angeles recently.

But she would not enter court on the crutch she uses. It was left outside. Kagey attempted to assist her. She shook him away with a show of pride and climbed the two steps to the witness chair slowly.

The jury of elderly, married Kansas farmers was closely attentive. They had appeared weary when the government rested its direct case after a week of testimony. "I always knew when my grand daughter was drinking," Mrs. Curtis said with a shade of accent on the first word. "She would walk in such a precise manner and talk not quite coherently."

No Signs

Mrs. Curtis glanced at the major whom she had not seen since long before he was arrested by federal detectives in Denver. He gave no sign.

Following the brief appearance of this first defense witness, Judge Arthur J. Hopkins called an adjournment until 9:30 a. m. Monday. S. M. Brewster, United States district atorney who is leading the prosecution, was suffering from a cold and asked an early adjournment.

Brewster, an elderly man, who has long been a familiar figure in Kansas courts, had proceeded deliberately with the great mass of evidence he assembled by an investigation which lasted for months after physicians indicated "something peculiar" about Mrs. Shepard's death.

Ends Case

He concluded his case today with a rush. A statement made to government agents in Denver by the major just prior to his arrest was read into the records. Four minor witnesses were called, then Brewster turned to the bench and said, "the government rests."

The major's statement intimated that liquor parties were held at Fort Riley, Kansas, where he was stationed when his wife died.

The officer told of his wife getting liquor from "officers or their wives."

Never Drink

"They obtained it from bootleggers," he said. "Mrs. Shepard often went out with the ladies in the afternoon at their parties and would come home drunk."

The government produced testimony from Fort Riley officers that Mrs. Shepard was a "charming, domestic woman, unassuming and exceptionally well bred." They had never seen her drunk, they said.

The defense had its first inning while cross examining Miss Brandon, after days in which the government produced expert testimony that Mrs. Shepard died from mercury poisoning, and that the major met and made love to the younger woman of his wife's illness.

Pair Given 60 Days For Gambling

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—UP—Two alleged gamblers, Milton "Farmer" Page and his associate, Gus Palmer, were in the city jail tonight, beginning 60 day sentences for violating a city ordinance governing the possession of racing charts.

Page and Palmer were convicted six months ago and had been at liberty under $5000 each pending an appeal. The appeal was denied recently.

They surrendered in court today, just as Municipal Judge Wilbur C. Curtis was preparing to issue bench warrants for their arrest and declare their bond forfeited.

LOVE IN ROUGH NOW SHOWING AT FOX

Robert Montgomery, featured player, and Dorothy Jordan, who appears opposite him, make their bow as a romantic team in "Love in the Rough," Metro Goldwyn-Mayer's musical comedy picturization of the play, "Spring Fever" which opens today at the Fox-California Theater.

The story centers about Kelly, shipping clerk in Walter's department store, whose prowess as a golfer leads his employer to invite him to his fashionable golf club as a guest and coach. Here he meets Marilyn, daughter of a millionaire. Despite all sorts of amusing complications, the wide-awake Kelly manages to win both the amateur golf match and the girl before returning to the business world as an executive.

Benny Rubin is chief among the funsters who provide mirth and hilarity in the picture. Benny is paired with Dorothy McNulty in a comedy romance that closely follows Montgomery and Miss Jordan through the film.

The music numbers are delightfully offered without stage artificiality and set a new standard in this type of screen fare. There are no dancing choruses. Dorothy Fields and Jimmy McHugh are responsible for the score which includes "Like Kelly Can," and two sure fire hits, "I'm Learning a Lot From You" and "Go Home and Tell Your Mother." Other numbers bound to be popular are "Just One More Waltz," "I'm Doing That Thing" and "Dance, Fool, Dance."

Included in the supporting cast are J. C. Nugent, Catherine Moylan, Tyrrell Davis, Allan Lane, Roscoe Ates, Edwards Davis and Harry Burns all offering capable performances in well-cast assignments.

Doe Killed In 1910 Confessed

AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 13.—UP—Law observance and religion go hand in hand as revealed in the confession of a former Texan now living in Portland, Ore., who admitted in a letter to the game fish and oyster commission that 20 years ago he killed a doe.

The man said, in the letter received today, that he killed the doe in San Saba county. He related that God had saved his soul and put it into his mind to confess the misdemeanor. He said he didn't know that the animal was a doe until after he had killed it.

MODERN HOMES SCORED BY WRITER

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—UP— The days when women had to measure plan and calculate in their own homes instead of having these things done for them in a modern city apartment were the days of brighter, more talented women, G. K. Chesterton, English novelist, says.

Writing for the National Association of Real Estate Boards, Chesterton declared women who live in rented quarters, especially in cities are losing their creative ability and the power of original thought. The leasure won from the machine age he believes, is being wasted in useless pursuits, and he thinks there is much culture in housework done by hand.

"Examine the world's great poetry and you will find that much of it is devoted to describing homely tasks of housekeeping" wrote Chesterton.

Sweeping Steps

"If sweeping the steps and hanging out the clothes inspired poets, then these tasks can inspire women to write books, paint pictures, and, most important, think for themselves as they did in the past.

"The increasing enslavement to fashion in their clothes and other articles is merely a result of women's loss of interest in the home.

Chesterton says he does not deride the woman who does something really constructive in the world, but "the women who give up chances to make homes for mediocre business careers — the army of stenographers—are a pitiful sight. Aside from their wages, they really believe they are doing something in the world, whereas all the letters and documents written by all the stenographers have added nothing at all to the world's progress."

One Injured In Automobile Crash

Slight injuries were received by John Regalia, 4307 Wall avenue, yesterday morning when the car he was driving crashed into a car driven by James T. Narbett of 466 Thirty-first street.

The accident occurred at Thirty-second street and Roosevelt avenue. The cars are reported to have skidded following the collision. Regalia's car crashed into a telephone pole, while Narbett's car hit a fire hydrant and broke the hydrant off at the ground.

Regalia's injuries were treated by Dr. W. E. Cunningham.

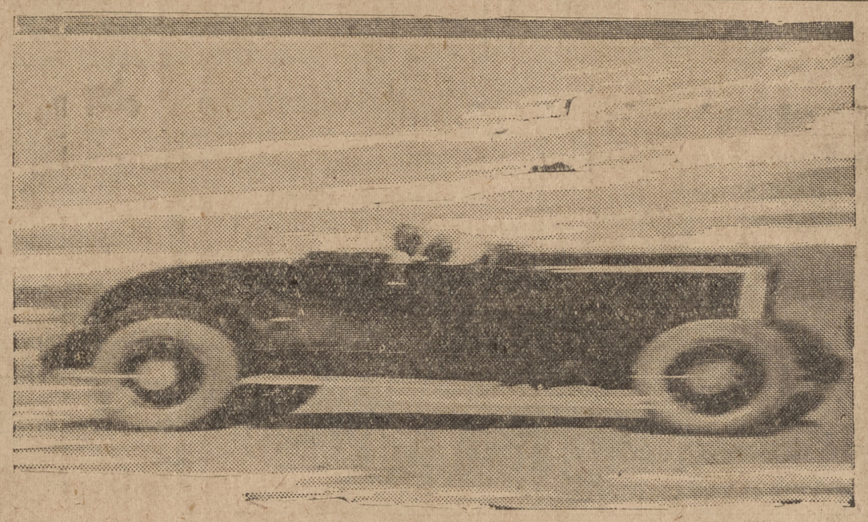
Town Replaced By Wheat Field

SENECA, Kan., Dec. 13.—UP— The town of Brookwalter, Neb., soon will cease to be. Its site was sold to a farmer who will plant it in grain. Brookwalter, which was near here, died because of removal of its railroad, a destructive fire and, a few weeks ago, the destruction of its last business building by a bolt of lightning it once had a population of several hundred.

Buick Shows Speed



THIS BUICK eight-in-line roadster is shown in one of the speed tests made on the famous Dry Lake in the Mojave desert of California, traveling 104 miles per hour. The new 1931 model made fifty tests over a measured mile at this speed with the thermometer at 105, and no shade, and the motor remained cool throughout the tests.

GOVERNMENT COST TOLD IN REPORT

Ray L. Riley, state controller, reports the cost of state government for the year ending June 30, as $119,599,302.07. Beginning in 1924 the Controller has calculated the annual cost of state government which is arrived at by deducting all transfers, revolving funds and inter-departmental transactions.

For comparative purposes the following tabulation is employed: Cost of state government for the year 1927—$87,597,756.25; 1928—$89,866,787.05; 1929 — $110,651,350.25; 1930—$119,599,302.47, which indicates an increase for the year with the year 1927.

During the current year there has been an increase of $8,947,951.82, almost entirely due to the following functions: Administration increase $1,474,552.00; educational increase $3,747,749.00. of 1930 of $32,001,545.82 as compared which $850,908.58 is due to increased fixed charges for elementary and high school apportionments to counties, and the balance of $2,896,840.42 due to increased state costs of administration and support of teachers' colleges. Protective activities account for an increase of $2,914,964.00 due largely to the purchase of Sacramento and San Joaquin Drainage District warrants. Apportionment to counties for highways increased $651,409.13.

In analyzing the increase covering the four year period of $32,001,545.82 highway construction and maintenance account for $13,315,592.94, apportionment to counties for highways $3,343,810.52, apportionment to counties for elementary and high schools $3,525,339.00. The remaining increase totaling $11,816,803.02 represents increased costs of all other functions of state government within the four year period.

Monks Make 12 Records Of Old Church Music

PARIS, Dec. 13.—UP—Voices silent for hundreds of years have broken through the ancient walls of the Abbaye de Solesmes in la Sarthe, near Paris, and people who formerly traveled thousands of miles to hear the famous Gregorian chants of the venerable monks, will soon be able to sit before their own log fires and listen to the holy songs.

The Benedictine monks have consented to sing before the microphone for the purpose of making 12 double-faced records. It was only after a careful and politic interview by the phonographs company commissioned to secure permission from Fathers Dom Moxquereau and Dom Gajard, that the holy chanters gave their consent.

Music Urged

M. Demolin, representative of the musical concern, explained that numerous requests had been made from America and other countries, and especially from professors of the "Schola Cantorum" who were desirous of giving the most perfect examples to their students in support of their teachings.

The monks still hesitated, unable to bring themselves at once to have their sacred songs desecrated to modern machinery. While they pondered on the subject, M. Demolin entertained them with records of other forms of beautiful religious music that they might have a better idea how their own would sound.

Monks Cheerful

They finally consented and during ten days while the necessary equipment for recording the voices was being installed, M. Demolin practically lived the life of a Benedictine monk himself, often eating with them and marveling at their good humor and constant cheerfulness.

The microphone was installed in the chapel itself and the chorus gave its performance with skill and dignity.

Publisher Is Indicted On Tax Charge

DENVER, Colo., Dec. 13.—UP—Frank S. Hoag, Pueblo publisher, was indicated on a charge of attempted income tax fraud by a United States grand jury, which reported to Federal Judge J. Foster Symes late today.

Hoag was charged with attempting to evade payment of $4,183.67 of a tax of $5,603.87 on the income of the Star-Journal Publishing corporation for the year 1927.

The government claimed the corporation's gross income from all sources was $328,295.16, on which expense deductions of $286,198.34 were allowable, leaving a net income of $42,096.82.

Hoag's income tax return, made March 15, 1928, showed gross income of $320,799.39, claimed deductions of $307,692.66, leaving a net income of $13,106.73, taxable in the amount of $1,499.40.

The indictment charged that Hoag actually paid only $374.85 as tax on the corporation's 1927 income.

The next arraignment day is next Saturday, but United States District Attorney Ralph Carr said it was doubtful Hoag would appear until after Christmas. Bond on the charge was set at $5,000.

Conviction on the charge against Hoag carries possible imprisonment up to five years and a possible fine up to $10,000, or both.

The grand jury also indicted James Perry Caldwell, who is held in jail at Trinidad, on the charge of falsely indorsing a United States bureau of prohibition check and passing it. Caldwell was arrested in connection with the disappearance of Ray Sutton, missing prohibition agent.

SPAIN REVOLT QUELLED BY TROOPS

would be executed at dawn tomorrow. Among those most likely to be shot were ten artillery men who ran along ahead of the revolutionary column, shouting "Long live the Republic," and attempting to persuade loyal troops to join them.

Rebel Wounded

Former Captain Fermin Galan, one of the rebel leaders, was reported wounded, although he attempted to reassemble his forces inside the fortified city to withstand the federal artillery and airplane forces concentrating in the region for a bombardment. The rebels had placed field pieces in position to defend the six gates of the city which has a high Roman wall and towers over the gates.

The rebels were reported to have killed two soldiers and two customs officers in Jaca when the men refused to join them. They also had held prominent townsmen as hostages. One of the hostages was said to be the bishop of Jaca. Galan said he would fight to death.

The revolutionary movement was started on Friday. It was said two students entered the artillery barracks and told the soldiers that a republic had been proclaimed. The artillerymen spread the news that overthrow of the Madrid government was at hand and they started out to join other soldiers in nearby towns.

The leaders, however, could force only parts of two battalions of infantry and one battery of artillery garrisoned at Jaca to join.

Armed Base

Preparations were started at once to turn the town into an armed rebel base.

Many citizens fled to the French border and others who refused to join were imprisoned. A rebel column marched out toward Huesca, the most important objective on the highway to Barcelona —a stronghold of revolutionary elements.

Meanwhile, the government had acted quickly to place loyal federal troops at Huesca and under command of General Dolla they advanced toward Jaca. A few miles out from Huesca, near Cilla, they established a line across the main road and waited the advance of the insurgent column.

General Gay, who arrived with reinforcements from Saragessa was appointed military governor of the region.

Well Armed

The rebel troops advancing in military columns, with trucks and carrying war materials, had passed the night near Ayerbe and they finally encountered the federal forces about half way between Jaca and Huesca. The insurgents were well armed, many carrying extra bandoliers of communition.

In front of the leading rebel column marched two loyal federal officers, General Las Heras and his aide, who had been captured near Jaca Friday night when they went out from Huesca to gain information about the rebels. They were held as hostages.

The federal forces were in position across the highway and between the railway tracks and the Gallego river when the insurgents reached them. The federals opened fire with artillery pieces, firing point blank into the rebel columns. The insurgent ranks broke and great holes were opened as the wounded fell. The leaders attempted to flee and in panic threw the entire force into confusion as screams rose above the roar of the guns.

The insurgents had attempted to deploy to the south, but two columns of federals advancing on the run after a fast journey from Huesca and Saragossa started surrounding them. The eight batteries of artillery did practically all of the firing.

Fleeing groups of rebels were surrounded in the little valley and scores were captured including three captains and several lieutenants.

Arms Captured

hundred rifles which the insurgents threw on the field as they fled, and also several trucks filled with grenades and ammunition.

Within about half an hour, the encounter was over and the federal troops gathered at the scene of the fighting and raised a cheer. Then they proceeded toward Jaca, where some of the rebels had fled. News of the defeat, however, caused scores to leave Jaca and seek safety in the mountains where it was believed the federals would have great difficulty in finding them. Many probably will reach France and be able to cross the border by merely surrendering their arms.

General Dolla was instructed by the Madrid government to hold a court martial at Huesca at once and it was believed the captured leaders would be shot at dawn to-

BUICK 8 SETS NEW SPEED MARK

With an acceleration from 10 to 60 miles an hour in 24 seconds, the new 1931 Buicks in the happy hands of happy purchasers suggest the Buick eight power which was unleashed in two days of sensational speed trials conducted at Muroc Dry Lake, in the Mojave desert of California. More than 50 times the Buick, with its 104 horsepower motor, made runs over a measured mile with an average speed of 104 miles per hours, according to C. C. Rintzer, local Buick dealer.

The model used for these special speed tests held for the benefit of Buick dealers and salesmen was a roadster of 132-inch wheelbase stripped of windshield, top, fenders and headlamps to reduce wind resistance. Harley Brittain, formerly with the racing team of Jimmy Murphy, in the air service during the war and now an aviator in commercial lines, was at the wheel throughout the runs which were made as rapidly as one passenger could be unloaded and another taken aboard.

Under a blazing Mojave Desert sun scorching the thermometer around the 105 mark, the roadster was sent over the course by Brittain with clocklike regularity, racing one direction and then returning with equal speed. With all of this excessive speed and frequency, the motor did not even approach boiling. This was a tribute, Brittian declared, to the new oil temperature regulator of the Buick motor which, in connection with the improved water cooling system maintained ideal temperatures.

Brittain, besides showing the ability of Buick to attain such high speeds, gave the new synchromesh transmission thorough tests under extraordinary conditions. His usual shift from second to high gear, he said, was made at 80 miles per hour.

"I have driven many cars, including special racing creations but I never handled one before that was as smooth at all speeds as this Buick," Brittian told H. E. Loomis, Pacific regional manager of the Buick Motor company. "At 104 miles an hour there is a complete lack of vibration and stress signals. In fact, there is a lack of speed sensation. Were it not for the terrific rush of wind the high speed does not vary materially from 60 miles an hour as far as the smoothness of the motor is concerned."

While these special trials were held to show the great power and smoothness of operation of the eight-cylinder motor, there was plenty of other speed for the Muroc visitors in which they could participate at the wheel. Sedans representing the four wheelbase lengths and three motor sizes were there for the dealers and salesmen to drive to their hearts' content with miles of smooth, hard lake bed stretching in all directions. It was an impromptu speed carnival with a score of cars driven from 70 to 80 miles an hour. Each car carried a capacity load, they being immediately filled as soon as the previous occupants scrambled out to run to another sedan for some more "go-fast" testing.

There were two days of this in heat which was typical of the Muroc Dry Lake summer brand. But throughout all of this top speed driving there was not one instance of boiling.

New Arrests Made In Bomb Death

EL CENTRO, Dec. 13.—UP—Two more arrests were made today in connection with the bombing of a Filipino rooming house, which caused the death of one Filipino and injury of three others in Imperial last Monday.

Frank Graham, 23, and Leland Hodges, 20, brother of A. L. Hodges, who has been held since the bombing, were held for investigation.

Anthony D. Patton, Imperial laborer, confessed, according to police, and named A. L. Hodges as a co-conspirator in the bombing.

The grand jury, after hearing the testimony of several witnesses today, was expected to return indictments tonight or Monday.

1000 Men To Be Employed By Oregon Soon

SALEM, Ore., Dec. 13.—UP—A plan was announced by Governor Norblad here today whereby more than 1,000 men in Oregon will receive immediate work, on state highways in an attempt to solve the unemployment problem.

The plan was announced today after certain legal problems were solved. The program was adopted at a meeting of Governor Norblad, H. B. Van Duzer, of the state highway commission, and State Labor Commissioner Gram, yesterday.

The work on the highways will extend over three winter months, and only residents of the state, properly registered in their respective counties and recommended by a local committee, will receive work under the relief program.

It is proposed to hire approximately 50 gangs, of 25 men each, in widening roadbeds, ditching, cutting brush, and other work along state highways. The men will be able to return to their homes each night, as the work will all be done near cities and towns. No camps will be established.

The wages for the work will be "moderate but sufficient to provide real help to those in need," it was said.

It is proposed that the registration, while primarily for the state, will also result in placing men in other lines of work.

The governor explained that the emergency work would be in addition to the regular maintenance and betterment work now carried on by the highway department.

Bogus Priest Given Sentence

CANON CITY, Colo., Dec. 13.—UP—William R. Rind, a paroled convict of the Mississippi penitentiary, who had gained admission to social activities here in the guise of a Catholic priest was sentenced to from three to five years in the penitentiary today.

Rind, who also had served a term at San Quentin prison, had impersonated Rev. Herbert Molson, a priest of McGill university, Montreal, Canada, and presented forged credentials to bear out his identity.

A worthless check given to a local automobile agency led to his arrest and his fingerprints revealed him to be Rind.

He was sentenced on a charge of operating a confidence game.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—UP—The brokerage firm of G. T. Wolcott and company was suspended from trading on the Los Angeles stock and curb exchanges today.

The board of governors of the exchanges announced that the action was taken to protect the firms clients. Losses to clients would be small, it was said.

The action was said to be based on an alleged violation of article 16 of the exchange by laws, which deals with certain forms of insolvency.

TECHNICALITIES CONDEMN MAN IN TEXAS

AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 13.—UP—Dave Goodwin, Bowie county farmer is legally facing the death chair on a murder conviction, though he was not tried according to law, the state court of criminal appeals here has held.

Executive clemency is his only hope. The court says failure to take certain steps for the defendant at his trial make it impossible under existing statutes to consider defects now.

"Revengeful passion apparently brooded over the trial" says the court, but no request for a transfer to some other county was asked, so the appeal court cannot do anything about that.

Judge Errs

Part of the judge's charge to a jury "may have been error" the high court admits. Failure to object to it at the time, now precludes that point.

Goodwin admitted killing Lloyd Elliott, another farmer. Elliott's hogs had been shot. Goodwin said Elliott had blamed him and when they met he shot in self defense. Fearful of feeling, an effort was made to dispose of the body, but it was found in a river, with gunshot and rifle wounds.

The killing was on Friday. The body was discovered Monday. The next Monday Goodwin went to trial. Both sides admitted it beat all other trials in the county for attendance. A school teacher brought his civics class. Twenty officers were grouped about the prisoner.

Trial Draws Mob

A change of trial to another county could not be forced, it is claimed, because citizens were so intimidated that none was willing to testify to the conditions."

Prosecuting officers assert that there was no mob attempt, that the crowd was orderly and a between crops season accounted partly for the big attendance.

So convinced is the court that Goodwin ought to have a new trial that the opinion lodges protest against the rigidness of statutes. "It shows that technicalities can work toward a conviction as well as an acquittal," wrote Judge A. B. Martin who drafted the opinion.

WINTER DUSK—NEW YORK

Across the wind-swept spaces of the park
Dusk broods; and lights gleam from the homing cars
That tread the winding mazes of cold dark
Beneath a galaxy of winter stars.
Over the tea cups, lovely ladies stir
And chat and smile, cradled in depths of fu

The red and green lights glimmer by the way
In rhythmic beauty; windows catch their glow
And throb with glamorous colors, and display
Enticing wares. Fashion and furbelow
Lure wanderers to pause and look once more
Upon the myriad treasures of each store.

Broadway flares golden wealth into the world
From brilliant arc lights, and the spreading sl
Burns like a bit of amber; signs unfurled
Flash back and forth above the passerby;
While pleasure seekers, gaudily arrayed,
March like bright soldiers in full dress parade.

A New York winter dusk: noisy and chill,
Meeting the outpour from each matinee!
The snow-plows burrow hard on Lenox Hill,
And scent of brine creeps upward from the Bay.
While, topping all, guarding man's frail empire
And etched in silver, stands the Chrysler spire!

Why Those Babies Didn't Laugh

THERE'S many a mother who's going to get one long, low chuckle out of the latest report
Of a Teachers College survey of babies and how they behave.
Several research workers set solemnly
to work
On "a study of laughter as an indication of social responsiveness in young children."
Alackaday and woe is me!
The results of the study appear to show
That a baby seldom or never is willing to "laugh that off"—
"Laugh Laboratory Finds Babies Glum"—
So glooms the headline on the sad tale.
Records kept of "laughs," "smiles" and "no response," by the infants
Subjected to no less than 2,525 "laugh exposure tests" by the scientists—
These records appear to show that Baby, like the late Queen Victoria, is not amused—
At least, not while child researchers are going into the study of his mirth in a serious way.
Children left in a natural environment—
So runs the sober report—
Maintained a complete detachment,
For the benefit of the hidden observer.
Therefore, it is dolorously declared that Mother and Daddie
Probably never will find Baby laughing all by himself—
And, even if they do, they must not be at all excited by his chuckles,
Since—according to the mournful tale of the Teachers College experts—
"There is no relation on the basis of these cases
"Between laughter and intelligence.
"Laughter seems to be more a matter of temperament."
Just here, we think, is where and when Baby's mother will begin to snicker,
Because she—and we—have exactly the same idea—
Namely, that even Baby himself must be getting terribly weary
Of these monumental, microscopic researches into his private life!
Of course, Baby didn't and wouldn't laugh for the Teachers College researchers—
For the simple reason that he is fed up with being used as a human guinea pig
By child psychologists!
It seems to us, despite their contrary conclusion, that Baby
Demonstrates a CLOSE relation between his laughter and intelligence
By refusing, MOST intelligently,
To laugh to the order of scientific research!
As for that "complete detachment" which Baby is said to have maintained
While "the observer remained hidden,"
And "the child was totally unconscious of the presence of others"—
We'd like to ask how the "others" knew of his total unconsciousness of their presence?
How could "the observer" be sure he was hidden from Baby's bright eyes and childish curiosity?
Personally, we'd back any baby of normal intelligence—
Particularly one who has been, as it were, weaned on psychological research—
To spot any "scientific observer," no matter how carefully concealed!
Furthermore, it seems to us perfectly natural
That Baby should become so bored at being scientifically observed
That, in his young mind, he may resolve, for once,
NOT to give "research" a run for its money—
NOT to laugh, if the authorities on child development are expecting him to do so—
But, on the contrary, to fool 'em!
Oh, those babies at Teachers College may have been sober as judges
All the time they were being observed for the 2,525 "laughter exposures"—
Yet something tells us that, when the babies were removed, so to speak, from the glass slides in the laboratories,
They smiled and chuckled and dimpled and gurgled
As every mother has seen her baby do, so often!
Trust the babies to see the joke of these "studies in the psychology of the child"—
Even if the psychologists can't see it!

"COISES!" QUOTH SHE

It makes me blue when I must cram
My head off, for some darned exam,
But things seem so much worse, you know,
(It makes me feel quite indigo!)—
When my best boy friend has to bone
For his exams—I'm left alone!
Yes, left to my dull meditations—
A plague take all examinations!

EUKA LAYLIE.

And now Mussolini's brother Arnaldo rushes forward to urge all women workers to go back to housework. Since the war, he pontificates, "women were taken from their proper sphere and have been filling abnormal places"—as stenographers, clerks and such! What an American woman wonders is whether there is any man in the Mussolini family capable of minding his own business and allowing women to mind theirs.

A DISH A DAY

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 193(

Even though food products, both staple and fancy, were unusually low-priced last week, most housewives exceeded their estimated budget of expenditures. It was such a temptation to offer unusual delicacies on the table when they could be had so reasonably. But along with this prodigal expenditure there was many a resolve to shop wisely and economically for the next few weeks until Christmas brings another feast day.

KAREN HOLLIS

Now that those frugal days of reckoning are here, the housewife finds herself in a quandry. She knows from past experience that certain tougher fibred cuts of meat are supposed to be much more economical than tender steaks and chops, but she may find to her surprise that just now there isn't a great deal of difference. Demand for heavy meats has been so slow for the past few days that markets have scaled down the prices on choice meats in many instances.

The housewife who sets out to do her marketing economically this week should study prices of meats at her neighborhood market and buy the cuts that offer the best value. In purchasing cuts of meat that require very slow cooking because they are cheaper than the more tender cuts, remember that the cost of fuel should be added to the estimated cost of the first. Sometimes it brings up the cost very close to the price of the more desirable, tender meats that require little cooking.

A delicious meat course for this season is steak roll. It can be made of flank or round steak cut very thin.

STEAK ROLL

2 to 2½ pounds round or flank steak, cut thin
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
2 tablespoons flour
6 strips bacon
1 cup water

STUFFING

2 cups bread crumbs
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon celery sal'
½ teaspoon sage
½ bay leaf, crumbled
Pinch of thyme
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 tablespoon minced onion
4 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons butter

Mix all ingredients of stuffing except butter. Melt butter in skillet and add bread-crumb mixture. Stir constantly and cook for about five minutes, or until slightly crisp and brown. Wipe steak with damp cloth and pound out if it is not very thin. Rub with salt and paprika and sprinkle on both sides with flour. Spread with stuffing, roll up and tie with cords or fasten with toothpicks. Cut slices of bacon into thin strips and place them over the roll. Put meat in baking pan, add water and bake in hot oven for fifteen minutes.

Reduce heat to moderate and continue baking, basting frequently, for one hour. If liquid in pan is not very rich add one bouillion cube dissolved in a cup of water of one tablespoon of beef extract. Thicken with flour and add one-half cup of chopped mushrooms, if desired. Baked squash is an excellent choice for a vegetable to serve with this dinner, as it requires about the same length of time for baking.

"Combination Comforts" in the Small Room

Furnishings That Make it Possible to Make Guests Home-like in Limited Quarters

By Alma Zaiss

Dear Miss Zaiss:

Our living room is a very small room in an old-fashioned house that was cut up into several apartments and there is so little wall space to put big things like a desk, overstuffed chairs, davenport, etc., I am in despair. We would like to have a couch that could be used as an extra bed, but where to put it so it will not crowd everything else I cannot decide. Thinking perhaps you could help me, I am writing to you for advice.

Originally the room next to the small room was the real living room, I think, and this smaller room was a little reception room or something. That is the way I have figured it out; or else the little room was a parlor and the other room a library. We are using the big room as a double bedroom and would like an arrangement of the front room so we could use it for living and also as extra bedroom when my sister-in-law stays with us, as she does very often over the week-end.

I have put our old big sofa in the back room for my little girl to sleep on. Have for living room two upholstered chairs, sectional book cases (six of them), a gateleg table, end table, a bridge lamp and two table lamps; also a small radio on a stand. I would like ever so much to have a desk, too, but can't find any place for it. We are disappointed in several things about this apartment, but anyway, have two real wood-burning fireplaces which we adore, and if we could get fixed up comfortably otherwise I think we could manage to be real happy here, as it is in a nice dignified old neighborhood. (MRS.) R. McD.

Living Room, Bedroom Requirements Observed Without Crowding

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

IT WOULD seem enough to ask that the tiny living room should provide a pleasing scheme and real comfort for the family of three who must spend in it the long winter evenings. But to make such a small room perform with dignity the double part of living room and bedroom for the extra guest is something of an achievement. It can and will be done for Mrs. McD., however—and that at comparatively little extra expense.

Doubtless the outstanding question in her mind is how to provide a comfortable and inviting arrangement which includes an extra bed without using a full-sized daybed or sofa. This point we would solve by selecting one of the small bed-sofas of the loveseat type. It is possible to get very good looking little sofas of a construction that folds the cushions in three sections instead of two, as in the larger models. When closed the lines of the small combination piece are as trim and well designed as those of a regulation davenport, and when opened out for sleeping the surface is very comfortable. The illustration for today does not picture this particular piece of furniture but is shown for the purpose of illustrating the comfort and appropriateness of such a sofa in a small room having little wall space and also for the very nice wall treatment at either side of the loveseat.

Since it is to be used occasionally we have indicated the equivalent of this piece on the wall opposite the fireplace, where it can be unfolded without intruding upon the hearth and as a bed, in Mrs. McD.'s room we still have the pleasure of facing the fire.

The diagram illustrates a hospitable and well-balanced arrangement which also permits the use of a desk at right angles to the window. Instead of a straight chair for the desk seat we would get an open arm chair. It is equally agreeable when needed for writing, and sufficiently comfortable to be used for lounging when turned about to complete the fireplace group. The radiator should be covered—without fail—and some sort of water plant in a pretty bowl might be used on its top. The gateleg table can go to the left of the fireplace with the back leaf down and an easy chair beside it. A pair of mirrors above the table and radiator would be in excellent balance for wall decoration. They would also be convenient for the week-end guest and give the room an effect of greater space.

Some time later it would be a good idea to replace the gateleg table with a lovely chest, rather shallow and medium in size . . . let us say about comparable to the bulk of the radiator on the opposite side of the fireplace. If a colorful bowl, a porcelain piece or a lamp and a few books and smoking accessories be given to the top of the chest the utilitarian purpose of such a piece will hardly be suspected.

Perhaps the radio can be housed in one of the compartments of the sectional bookcase instead of being kept on a separate stand. If not, it could go to the right of the entrance to balance the sofa. We would also add a screen to the equipment of this combination room, placing it as indicated before the open door leading to the adjoining bedroom. To the right of the fireplace is room for a pretty woodbasket and a low fireside bench or a very small chair that is well designed and comfortable for the child of the household, who will find it much fun to have a good seat near the crackling fire during the winter evenings.

In our minds we have worked up such a cozy, inviting plan for this little room that we would not exchange it for any number of more spacious—and less companionable—living rooms that have been presented to us for treatment. It is hoped that Mrs. McD. will come to see it in the same light and enjoy her room accordingly.

LOVESEATS OR LITTLE SOFA-BEDS HAVE ALL THE CUSHIONED COMFORT OF A LARGER SOFA . . . AND FIT PERFECTLY IN SMALL COMBINATION ROOMS.

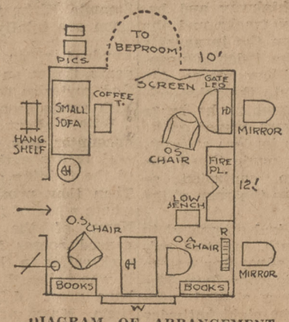

DIAGRAM OF ARRANGEMENT

PROBLEM NO. 2

Dear Miss Zaiss:

I have just moved into a rather new house with the kitchen and breakfast room done in light green and buff. That is, the woodwork and tile halfway up is green and ceiling and side walls buff. But my breakfast set and dishwashing machine are gray; the electric refrigerator, which is in the breakfast room, is all white, the stove white and black; the linoleum is green and gray, a large green block separated with gray, but the kitchen isn't especially light, as there are only two small windows over the sink. Would you advise me to have the side walls done in gray or have my breakfast set and dishwasher done in perhaps orange?

One of my bedrooms also puzzles me. The wallpaper is rather a distinct pattern of yellow with black and a little bit of green. What colors would you advise? I have orchid rugs and candlewick spread with orchid dots, but somehow it doesn't appear dainty. There is only one long window besides a French door opening onto a large porch with overhead awning. It is rather a small room and gets very little sunshine. Thank you in advance for your help. (MRS.) A. E. McC.

A QUESTION OF CHEERFUL COLORS

THESE two questions can be answered very briefly by saying that we would prefer to do the breakfast set and dishwasher in a good shade of orange; gray is a cold, rather cheerless color and it also absorbs the light.

In the bedroom. . . orchid is not so good with the yellow paper. It would be better to repaper the walls in the softest possible shade of green, or use a paper that has a design in which there is a prominent note of orchid . . . such as a lilac or a quaint chintz pattern on a deep cream ground. Or the walls might be painted in two tones of old ivory. Orchid is always a difficult color to manage, as it must be handled with great elegance to prevent it from appearing insipid or cheap.

Sewing Machine Hints

IT is exasperating after sewing a long stretch of fabric to find you have all loops instead of neat, even stitches. When this happens examine your needle. A bent needle will cause missing stitches. Skipped stitches are often due to too large a needle or using too fine a thread. After deciding what number thread you will use, select a needle that has an eye just large enough for the thread to pass through freely.

When the machine needle becomes dull stitch through very fine sandpaper for several inches; this will sharpen it.

Jewelry to Fit Dress, Eyes

By Rose Patterson

North American Newspaper Alliance

PARIS, Nov. 25.

"IT'S a pity," said a famous American film star to her dressmaker here a week or so ago, "that we can't buy our bracelets already adjusted to our gloves and our earrings to our berets."

"But why not?" said Madame. And the next day she was hand-in-glove and glove-in-bracelet with a jeweller from the Rue de la Paix. The result of this is that you may now buy a black velvet turban with real jade and diamond earrings attached. A coat with carved jade buttons and gloves with jade bracelets to match. Remember, though, if you go in for anything of this kind that your jewels should match your eyes if possible.

Evening berets made entirely from fresh violets, with fresh violet mittens to match, are a new note. The stalks are interlaced upon a background of green net. For day wear there are little hats made of fresh ivy leaves, with scarves of green net laced with the leaves at the ends.

Making a Family Budget

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

THE sixth column in the family budget is health and this includes all expenses for physician, dentist, oculist, hospital, nurse, special treatment, surgical appliances, medicine, eye glasses and traveling expenses necessitated by ill health.

Advancement and recreation covers a large field and has several subheads. Education takes in expenses for school tuition, special fees, books, school supplies, travel to and from school and board. Reading matter—newspapers, magazines, circulating library fees, books other than those required in school and college work. Public Welfare—contributions to religious purposes, charity, social service, educational and civic organizations, income taxes and all taxes except those on property. Gifts and greeting cards.

Recreation—Theater, movies, sports, concerts, lectures, dances and all amusements, entertaining, club and lodge dues, sheet music, records, radio supplies, athletic supplies, toys and pets. Vacation includes expenses for all pleasure trips, transportation, hotels, meals, sight-seeing, etc. Under vocation come all expenses connected with the business or profession that are not charged up to business but are paid out of the family income.

Personal expenses are usually covered by the personal allowance and may be simply entered as such. The items that come under personal expenses are hairdresser, beauty aids, barber, toilet articles and supplies, smoking accessories and supplies, candy, soda fountain drinks, jewelry and other personal items.

Savings means money kept in bank as emergency funds, all insurance except fire insurance, payments on houses, savings account, investments, mortgages, government securities, bonds, stocks, real estate, etc.

If you own an automobile you must consider, under this head, expenses for gasoline, oil, the several insurance premiums, license, tax, repairs, replacements, new equipment and rent for garage.

BUYING A MOUNTAIN

AMONG last week's important real estate transactions was the sale of Ben Lomond, the famous Scotch mountain, to a syndicate. We'll tune you in on a meeting of the board of directors following the sale.

CHAIRMAN—Gentlemen, we ha'e just made a verra valuable acquisition in the pur-r-rchase of Ben Lomond Moontain.

ANGUS—Aye, Mr. Chairman, but noo that we have a moontain, what are we going to do with it?

CHAIRMAN—Our-r-r first move is to charge folks for looking at it.

JOCK—I presume the stockholders can always take a wee glance free?

CHAIRMAN—Aye, the stockholders can look at Ben Lomond gratis. But I wouldna advise overdoing the thing

DOUGLAS—Mr. Chairman, noo that we have acquired this verra valuable moontain, I suggest we take out burglary insurance on it at the ear-r-rliest possible moment.

CHAIRMAN—Aye, Douglas; that will be done.

ANGUS—Are ye sure we ha'e a bar-r-rgain in this moontain, Mr. Chairman?

CHAIRMAN—Aye, a verra good bar-r-rgain. The seller threw in the moontain goats free.

ANGUS—An' how will ye make this moontain pay?

CHAIRMAN—Well, Angus, fur-r-rst we start charging people to look at Ben Lomond. Then we ha'e a set of prices for climbing the moontain.

JOCK—What might the prices be?

CHAIRMAN—We are charging a shilling to climb to the peak of Ben Lomond—and no refund, mind ye, in case the summit be not reached.

JOCK—Aye, and what else of revenue?

CHAIRMAN—Well, we're char-r-ging ten pence if the customer slides doon the moontain. We're also planning, Jock, as soon as the snow flies, to ha'e kiddies' days—when, for a nominal char-r-rge, the wee ones can slide doon the foothills on sleds—the wee ones, of course, furnishing their own sleds.

DOUGLAS—Do ye think ye'll make a substantial profit?

CHAIRMAN—Aye, Douglas, an' then there's the hidden possibilities of the project. The moontain might develop into a volcano. In that case we could retail the heat.

DOUGLAS—Aye, an' if no volcano develops, Mr. Chairman? Are the stockholders stuck?

CHAIRMAN—By no means. We ha'e a verra fine moontain peak on Ben Lomond an' on it we can raise our own snow, Douglas, and freeze our own icebergs. Think, mon, of the savings in that.

ANGUS—Noo that we ha'e such verra valuable by-products, Mr. Chairman, I suggest we hire a night watchman for the moontain.

CHAIRMAN—A night watchman has been appointed, Angus.

JOCK—'Tis maybe a bar-r-rgain we ha'e in this moontain, Mr. Chairman, but what is the depreciation? Ha'e ye thought o' that?

CHAIRMAN—Aye, the depreciation is only 5 per cent a year. Moontains wear out verra slowly.

JOCK—Are ye sure there'll be no char-r-rges for repairs?

CHAIRMAN—Repairs will not be necessary unless we should suffer an earthquake. In that case our investment might be impair-r-red.

JOCK—I dinna like the idea of an earthquake, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN—Be ye not afraid, gentlemen. Ben Lomond is a substantial property. I'll wager ye it returns a profit of 12 per cent a year.

ANGUS—I surely trust so, Mr. Chairman. An' I would suggest, Mr. Chairman, if Ben Lomond is a successful venture, that we open up a chain of moontains.

MURDER TRIAL OF OFFICIAL NEARS END

TOPEKA, Kans., Dec. 13.—UP—Louis H. Kimmel, former president of the Kaw Packing company here will take the witness stand Monday to deny a charge that he instigated the murder of the vice-president of his company, Roy Kramer.

Kimmel is alleged to have hired Virgil Pointer, once an employee of the packer to kill Kramer with an iron bar when the two men became bitter over business rivalry and affairs with young women who knew both the men.

County Attorney J. Glenn Logan has produced a long series of witnesses against the defendant among them Pointer, who confessed to the murder, and Fred Glover, another plant worker, who said Pointer asked him to aid in killing the executive.

Charles Rooney, chief defense counsel, told the jury he would produce evidence to refute every detail of the state's case. The defense scored a point in testimony of Owen Keim, plant watchman, who asserted he went up and down stairs of the packing building every hour on the night Pointer said he killed Kramer on the steps.

The trial enters its third week Monday. Large crowds have attended the sessions. The testimony contained references to parties held in the plant where Kramer assertedly maintained a furnished bedroom. The parties were said to have been attended by slaughter house employes, sausage girls, stenographers and young women from the "outside."

It has been intimated that affairs existed between a number of employes of the plant where both men and women worked and that the foreman and executives knew of this.

Witnesses have told of an affair between Kimmel and Miss Catherine Vick, a stenographer whom he allegedly sent to college, then employed.

Glover testified he had an affair with Ada Dutcher, another employee, and that when the girl told Kimmel she was in trouble and needed money, the packing president supplied it.

Wound Proves Fatal To Local Bandit Suspect

He looked over his shoulder to stare into the muzzle of a revolver. Realizing that it was a holdup, Heldoorn pushed open the door of his home, ran through his house with the bandit in pursuit, and then ran out of the same door he entered and started across San Pablo avenue.

Chase Started

Hyland so he said, followed him, yelling to him to halt. Heldoorn refused to do so, and threw his purse away.

Patrolman Thulen, on his beat, passed by at this time and saw the two men running. Thinking that there was a fight, he stopped his machine and leaped out asking what was the matter. Heldoorn shouted that he was being robbed.

Hyland seeing Thulen, turned and started to run away, going up Schmidt Lane. Thulen chased after him, yelling for him to stop.

Shots Fired

Hyland turned, pointed his pistol and fired a shot at the pursuing officer, Thulen reported. He said he heard the bullet whistle over his head.

Drawing his pistol, Thulen fired a shot into the air in an effort to stop the man. Thulen again fired into the air. Another shot and the bandit refused to halt. Thulen then slowed his pace, raised his pistol and took a careful aim. At the shot the man slumped to the street, the officer said.

New Arrests Seen In Big L.A. Crash

refused to conform them, rumors persisted through the day that other arrests will be made as the investigation of the financial catastrophe gains momentum.

Fitts said that he planned to call Beesemyer, Fleury, Miss Flannigan, Charles A. Whitmore, State Building and Loan commissioner, members of Witmore's staff and all directors of the Loan association to testify before the grand jury.

An involuntary petition of bankruptcy was filed against the company in federal court late today by Arnold H. Lande, with $22,000 claim; Hannah T. Lande and Elizabeth Lande, $1,400, and Pauline Pahl, $249,762.

Petition Filed

The petitioners asked for the involuntary petition on three grounds.

1—The company is insolvent because Charles H. Whitmore took it over on December 12 as receiver or trustee.

2—Thousands of dollars of the concern have been paid out to creditors who have been given preference.

3—Petitioners believe that Gilbert H. Beesemyer embezzled thousands of dollars of the funds of the organization.

The district attorney said that the chief concern at present was to find out why Beesemyer's manipulations were not discovered sooner. It was believed that this angle will be one of the first investigated by the grand jury.

Fitts in Probe

Fitts questioned Miss Flannagan and C. C. Barnes, state building and loan examiner, and said that their statements were conflicting in a number of details.

According to the district attorney, Miss Flannigan declared that Beesemyer's withdrawals were shown "in black and white" on the records of the concern. Barnes however, said that if this was true it had been "overlooked" in the examination of the books by the state. The last examination, he said, was made eight months ago.

S. A. Steindorf, attorney for the state building and loan department, said it was planned to sue the directors of the loan company to recover the money of some 20,000 investors. If the loss is not recovered in this manner the dozen stockholders will be sued, he said.

Is Nervous

Beesemyer, native son of Hollywood, prominent clubman and church leader, was nervous in his cell as the investigation proceeded.

He declared that his confidence in his money-making ability was not shaken despite the fact that enterprises he selected to back with stolen funds failed to pay him the millions which he anticipated.

"I would like to help the depositors get out as much as possible," the former financier told newspaper reporters. "However, I don't suppose I will be able to. I feel that I could carry on some business from behind bars which would help those who lost."

Juggled Accounts

Beesemyer said that he took money from the company by juggling certificates of liabilities. The books of the company showed only $10,000,000 deposits although investors had placed approximately $17,000,000 in the concern, he said. The fact that too much interest was being paid for the $10,000,000 on the books finally led to his apprehension by the examiners, Beesemyer said.

Most of the money, according to Beesemyer, went into the Elmer Oil company, of which Earn N. Moore, a former convict, was vice-president in charge of operations.

Beesemyer said he knew Moore had a prison record but regarded him as a first class oil man.

Lewis Scored By Swedish Papers For U. S. Talk

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 13. —UP— Sinclair Lewis' denunciation of the state of civilization in America during his speech accepting the 1930 Nobel prize for literature drew both favorable and unfavorable comment today.

The Allehanda, leading afternoon daily, editorially resented the novelist's attacks on the American National Academy of Arts and Letters. The paper referred to Lewis as a "noisy savage."

Other newspapers were more restrained.

"Lewis is sincere," said the liberal Tidningen. "He spoke with the earnestness of a student who believes in his own ideas. He achieved a new success and won fresh sympathy both for his own works and for all good modern American literature."

The Social Demokraten said if Lewis had not been courageous, "he would not have written Arrowsmith, Elmer Gantry and Babbitt, nor have delivered this speech."

Manna Like Rain Of Beans Laid To Birds By Science

FAIRFAX, Va., Dec. 13.—UP—Fairfax County Farm Agent H. B. Deer has learned the true cause for reports from several Virginia localities that beans have been falling like manna from the heavens after severe rainstorms, providing food for those stricken by the long summer drought.

A telephone call to Derr from a farm on the Little River Turnpike, telling him of the phenomenon, left him skeptical, but he decided to investigate. To his astonishment he found the ground covered with thousands of brown bean-like seeds, all about half an inch long.

Seeking more expert advice, he took samples to the department of agriculture in Washington, where they were pronounced seeds of the sour gum. Scientists of the United States Biological Survey were then called in, and an explanation was found.

The seed of the sour gum is a favorite delicacy with the starling. The birds fill their craws with them, strip off the pulp, and regurgitate the polished pellets. Flocks of starlings of considerable size are common in the vicinity of Fairfax.
